tive of the country.

Zinovieff says the Bolshevik program will be submitted to the constituent assembly for approval and if the assembly is willing to work in harmony it will justify the hopes and expectations of the people. On contrary, should it reject the olshevik program the assembly could find itself in conflict with the laboring masses and be brushed

FRANCE, Jan. 6 .- Freezing tem peratures continue to hold the British front in an icy grip. Many of the roads are impassable to motor cars owing to snow drifts and the fighting necessarily is desultory ow-ing to the weather conditions. The Germans, however, are exceedingly active carrying out raids on various parts of the line. Their exploit of yesterday morning east of Bullecourt in which they cap-tured an advanced British post resulted in a heavy loss of life to the attacking troops. Late yesterday afternoon the British organized a counter thrust and recaptured the position. There has been considerable activity in the air and also continual wrangling between the big guns. The Germans are industriously conducting changes in their back areas which lends support to the general impression that they intend to at-liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested foods, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

WAR HAS CAUSED RETURN TO

Bring Victory for Justice, He Declares.

Archbishop Glennon, in his centennial sermon at the Old Cathedral yesterday morning, at an observance of the 100th anniversary of the arrival of Bishop William Louis Dubourg in St. Louis, spoke of the war as having caused a return to religious faith. He said the French had been aroused by the bombardment of Rheims Cathedral as by nothing else. Of America's part in the war, he said: "In their going, our soldiers will remember, as did the martyrs of old, the cross of Christ. They will bear it with them to the battlefield. and when they fall they will ask that it be set near the place where they lie. They will bring back to the army the faith that heretofore was disregarded. Our soldiers will be crusaders, and the end thereof shall

The German gunners till now had been answering the fire, but very wildly. After a few more shots the machine guns of the French machines stuck, but the Americans had the satisfaction of seeing the observer in one German machine drop forward in the cockpit. The pilot, however, still had control

Hall and Peterson gave the Ger-man pilot in another machine no respite and by careful maneuvering prevented him from getting too far in the German lines. They drove the German down to 15,000 feet, when Bridgeman and Hall, who were beow, also attacked. After a few shots the German observer was seen to be put out of commission and something dropped out of the machine. Later it was found to be a helmet covered with blood and with a bul-

Unfortunately, the guns of both Bridgeman and Hall also stuck. The four American flyers kept to their foe, although no one had a gun working, trying to make the German land in the French line. The wind, owever was too strong lowed the Germans down until they ran into a terrific fire from machine guns on the ground. Finally both Germans landed in their own lines.

Sighted Over French Idne Early next morning a German airplane was signaled coming over the French lines when Bridgeman and Peterson went up. Attaining an al-titude of 15,000 feet, both pilots drew toward the white clouds of bursting shells from the French guns, when they discovered a Ger-man well above them and 15 miles inside the French line, either taking photographs or going to drop bombs on a neighboring big town. The French machines then turned a litle with the intention of cutting off the German's retreat. When at a height of 25,000 feet they spotted the German making for his home lines 1200 feet below.

The American flyers dropped a lit-tle and attacked the German from either side. At the first volley the German machine slipped over and fell about 4000 feet. Bridgeman and Petersen followed him and renewed the attack. No return fire came from the German machine, but the American pilots kept up the fight until they got well in the German lines and over a German observation point. At that moment seven other Germans came out to rescue their comrade. The same afternoon Lieut Ver-dier-Faverty and Hall went out to attack German observation balloons. About five miles inside the German lines they found a brand-new one showing up yellow in the sky. Turn-ing around into the wind, both aviators attacking simultaneously, sending the German gas bag to earth a mass of flames. On their return to the French lines they came across two German airplanes. This mo ment all four machines were directly over the trenches, receiving a murderous fire from the machine guns on the ground. After a hot fight one German flopped over and made a corkscrew dive for 1500 feet and landed in the German lines, while the other also slipped away. be enjoyed in abundance, and the general opinion was that in this play, suggested by Will Irwin's Rosalie

La Grange stories, Veiller has surpassed the thrills of his former triumph, "Within the Law," by ing the action in a far shriller key.

But the undoubted clutch of the topic of conversation in the lobbies tion could have half a dozen plausble answers was more of a tribute to the playwright's skill in mystifying

For one may doubt whether even Edgar Allen Poe, whose acumen was able to forecast the outcome of Dickens' "Barnaby Rudge" after only a few installments had appeared, could have predicted which of five suspected persons was guilty of the murder.

The mystery was not even a puzzle;

it was a guessing game, like "Who's got the button?" The recipe by which the plot was concocted seems to be simple: Evidence is presented which casts distrust more or less impartially upon several persons; until the last few minutes one is about as likely to be guilty as another; and finally the culprit is abruntly chosen, apparently by some such princi-ple as that used by children in the game of hide and seek, in which the Mystifying the Audience.

This casual method of fabricating a denouement is certainly a telling device for maintaining suspense, but after it is all over the spectator has a resentful feeling that the author has not treated him with candor. Suspense may be attained by more ingenious methods. If one had never seen "Romeo and Juliet," he might be unable to predict its issue from the early part of the play; but at the conclusion he would recognize that the fault was his own and not that of the playwright; he would see that all the data was conscientiously supplied, and that the ending was the only one logically inevitable.

It would be unfair to reveal whom Veiller picked as the murderer, but it is no secret to say that it was not Helen O'Neil, daughter of the me-dium. The least sophisticated in the audience is certain it is not she, becumulated against her more than against any other, and chiefly be-cause she is the one pronounced guilty by the police. All audiences know that in a mystery play the police are always wrong.

In such a drama characterisation on the part of the actors is a minor thing, it sufficing that the persons are mostly human lay figures. A group more stolidly unmoved than the guests when the murder was discovered could scarcely be imagined.

touches were supplied by Miss Hall, by Edward Keenan as the foppish

Miss Jane Gilroy as the ox-eyed and silly Mary Eastwood. Marie Goff was attractive as Helen O'Neil.

Are You Tired and Depressed?

Do you feel the need of a tonic? Is your appetite indifferent, and do your nerves get on edge frequently? Do you find difficult the work you once enjoyed? And, do you prefer to sit around, rather than take healthy exercise? These symptoms accompanied by fever may indicate a serious condition. If fever is absent, you are probably just "run down."

The men to suggest that the city is inhabited at Funston have learned to salute by an army. high degree in accuracy.

These men, a picked lot of upstanding, intelligent young Americans of the finest type, are now teaching the men of the selective draft.

There may be here and there a bit of snobbery in the attitude of the officers toward the enlisted men, but of it. The men were selected by a democratic method, and so were the officers. It is made plain to the men that when they salute an officer they salute primarily his rank, conferred upon him by commission from the President. The courtesy of the salute is rigidly enforced at Funston, as indeed are all other military regulations. Everywhere one sees evidence of the strictest kind of

A man must have this keenness list of general orders in which each learn that list and hold it in mind reciting an order without putting every word in the right place, the wrath that seethes within him is for the officer and not the private. "You have a man," says the Colonel to the inlucky Lieutenant, "who has not been properly instructed."

It is not an easy job, that being an officer. There is far more to it than wearing leather puttees and eating at the officers' mess. "What do you do with a backward pupil?" I asked a Lieutenant. "All we can do," he said, "is hammer, hammer, hammer away, pa-

The Glory of Paying an Income Tax

THAT fine old fisher of men, John the Apostle, went straight to the masculine heart and stirred the good red blood when he said to the young men of his day, "I write unto you because you are strong."

Strength has always been the glory of manhood. Today it is the glory of the American. America needs its strong men, and is calling them because they are strong.

Men of two kinds must be reckoned with in these critical days. One kind is a burden and a drag on the Government. They fill the institutions, the prisons, and the internment camps. They must be carried as a dead weight, as impediments in America's onward course. Thank God, the other kind is far more numerous! They are the men who lift and carry their country's burdens. They exult in their strength. They take up, with glad hearts, their share of the load, and push out in front, "rejoicing as a strong man to run a race."

The nation has sent its boys to war. Now it calls its men and women at home to pay the money without which the war will fail and the boys will die. It calls six and a half million men, because of their greater strength, to carry a greater share of their country's burden of life and death. The name of their special share of the patriot's burden is "Income Tax." Every unmarried man whose income in 1917 was as much as one thousand dollars and every married man whose income was two thousand dollars or more must make a report to the Government, by March 1, 1918, on a printed form provided for the purpose. Inquire of any bank.

WHY have we sent our boys out from our homes into the furnace of war? Why have we sent our young men, the strength, and hope, and pride of our nation, to face the fury of the Hun? Why have we urged them to go, and cheered them as they marched away, while we stayed at home?

It is not because we wanted them to do our part, to pay our price, to render our allegiance. It is not because their going would leave us free to live in ease and comfort, pursuing our pleasure, piling up our profits. We did not ask our boys to suffer and die that we might shirk.

We sent them because they could go and we could not. We cheered their going because we knew in our hearts that we, also, are going to give our best and our utmost, as Americans, in answer to our country's call. Every cheer we uttered was a solemn pledge of our support to the boys who marched away. Our uncovered heads as Old Glory passed by at the head of the regiments was the sign of our own allegiance, our own passion of love for America, and our firm purpose to pay our part of the great price of its glory.

No grudging, fault-finding complaint at the work of Congress will come from the American who would add his full strength to his country's arm, and do his part of her glorious task. With earnest study and thorough discussion in many public hearings and long sessions through nights and days of careful preparation, the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee constructed the war revenue bill by which all the people might bear some part of their country's stupendous burden, and the strong a larger part. The representatives of the people in Congress, from every district of the land, gave the bill serious and faithful consideration. It now is law, -our law. We all know it is not perfect, none know it more than those who strove to make it as good as they could. It may yet be modified and improved in some details, but whatever its final form, our only duty is to comply with its provisions, gladly performing our appointed share of America's great task.

The proudest part comes to you who are blessed with the larger incomes from America's prosperity, and who can lift a special share of your country's burden. Your ability to render this greater service to the cause of liberty is your glory as an American citizen. If ever you felt satisfaction and thanksgiving that you have such an income, you will feel it now, when it gives you greater power for glorious service.

In the usual course of business, THE LITERARY DIGEST would have used this page in many of the leading newspapers of the nation to present its own claims upon the attention of all busy, thoughtful Americans; but at this serious moment, facing the supreme task of America's defense of her liberties, and her matchless service to humanity, THE LITERARY DIGEST dedicates this page to the glorious cause which thrills every American heart as we enter the New Year.

All the world shall gain a new knowledge of America and Americans in this coming year. And we shall come to know ourselves as never before. We shall honor the Americans who go into the great battles of freedom. We shall cheer them, help them, pray for them; and as we report promptly to our Government our Income Tax, and so lift a strong man's share of its burden, the glory of our country will rise in our own souls, and every day in the coming year we shall say, with a new thrill of understanding, as that grand old patriot, Daniel Webster, said.

Head of Waterways Body Says Boats to New Orleans Will Release 10,000 Freight Cars.

James E. Smith, president of the ssissippi Valley Waterways Assoiation, who returned from Washingon yesterday after conferences with resident Wilson, Director-General f Railroads McAdoo and members of the Shipping Board, on the proosed St. Louis-New Orleans barge line plan, said today that the line probably would be in operation ithin six to eight months. The enthusiastic support given the plan by the President and all administration officials, he added, prompted him to make this prediction.

Smith is head of a committee of

t. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans usiness men, appointed recently to obtain Government funds for the cretion of a lower river barge line.

Conference With President. Smith has been in Washington for 10 days, and last Thursday had an interview with President Wilson, during which the chief executive and Smith discussed the barge project in detail. Smith said that he was surprised at the grasp the President prised at the grasp the President had of facts concerning the revival of Mississippi River traffic. At the close of the interview the President expressed his hearty approval of the plan and promised to confer with McAdoo about it.

The hearts line plan contemplates

The barge line plan contemplates the construction of 200 barges and 16 towboats, at a cost estimated between $12,000,000 and $13,500,000, and it has been pointed out by traffice experts that such a line, with 16 round trips a year, would release etween 12,000 and 13,000 freight cars and a large number of locome ives for the movement of other

To Keep Committee at Capital. "The whole situation looks very avorable," said Smith, "and I think that the project is going to material ize. Of course, there is a great deal of work to be done, and the shippers of St. Louis must back this move-ment with all their strength. I intend to call a conference this week of all the big shippers and other business men that are interested in the plan, and begin a campaign that will not close until we have achieved our purpose. A committee must be kept in Washington constantly for

"There is a provision in the rail-oad bill, soon to be introduced in Congress, appropriating $500,000,000 to be used by the President in the operation of railroads, which will empower the President to expend any part of the fund that he may deem necessary for the purchase, construction, utilization and operation of boats, barges and tugs on the inland waterways, and create and employ any agencies that he may wish to use. The President has expressed his sincere desire to co-op-erate in the plan and I think that any opposition that may develop in Congress can be overcome. River Traffic Blocked 20 Years. "The public knows that the develblocked for 20 years by the rail-roads, but now that they are under Government control, I think this opposition has been eliminated.

"The President realizes the importance of diverting to the Gulf of Mexico as much as possible of the vast amount of war freight which originates in the Mississippi Valley. The traffic congestion in the Eastern ports is giving the administration much concern.

Time Saved in Loading.
"Loading can be done in New Orleans in two to three days, while it now takes 10 days to three weeks to load vessels at Eastern ports. The extra time in reaching the gulf would be more than made up in the saving of time. If the bill passes Congress with the waterways provision, I think that the administration will start work on the barges and tugs immediately afterward. We can build them in St. Louis of wood. Very little steel would be required."

Director-General McAdoo has agreed to support the barge line plan, Smith said. A number of Senators and Congressmen, Smith added, have promised to vote for the railroad bill with the waterways pro-

1917 Total Put at 544,000,000 Tons; 550,000,000 Tons Expected. WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The 1917 bituminous coal production is put at 544,000,000 tons, an increase of 42,-000,000 over 1916 in preliminary es-timates today by the Geological Survey. Fuel administration officials had expected the total to be more than 550,000,000 tons. December's production was the smallest of any month since last April, due principally to the car shortage.

Patriotic Employers

To the Editor of the Post-Dispa Appreciating the active part the Postispatch has taken in encouraging and engizing every effort to back up the men in arms in defense of our country, might I be permitted to suggest that you call the attention of the business men of our community to one service they can ender those men, who are now making heir hearty gratitude and give them new ourage for the work before them.

This is to always give preference when engaging employes (wherever that is practicable) to the mothers, the wives, the ave sacrificed their work and their busiess prospects, and stand ready to sacrifice lives, to serve the United States or and there is another thing we can do for those women. Let them feel that when their men do come home again all employers will realize the fact that they have not become derelicts, but that, on the contrary, they are more effective, of more value, because of the service they will have rendered. Let them know that this service, with its stern discipline, its severe trials, will have developed and strengthened their manhood and made them of greater worth to themselves, to their famies and in the work to which they will

JUDGE SLATE'S MISCONDUCT.

Attorney-General McAllister's announced intention to apply for a writ of prohibition to prevent Judge Slate from sitting in graft cases, assures that the trial of other Jefferson City graft cases will not be under the rulings of a Judge whose conduct has brought from the State Supreme Court the severest condemnation.

The Supreme Court's action in the Howell and Ewing contempt cases marks a long step towards. instice in dealing with the corrupt ring in the State capital. In deciding to acquit Assistant Attorney-General Howell and Special Prosecutor Ewing from the judgment of contempt Judge Walker called attention in scathing terms to the evidence that the records of Judge Slate's court had been falsified to sustain the judgment. He called attention to Judge Slate's improper and illegal actions in refusing to disqualify himself Entered at postoffice, St. Louis, Mo., as second-to try cases in which a change of venue had been Kinlech, Central ecce sought on affidavit charging prejudice. The record, the evidence and the decision in these cases are damning against Judge Slate.

So far as the graft cases are concerned, Judge Slate is disposed of. But what of his place on the bench? After the opinion of the Supreme Court his usefulness is at an end. Ample ground has been supplied for impeachment proceedings in the State Legislature. The lesson would be salu-

EXPERTS AND THE WAR.

Within the past few weeks a number of European and domestic war expents have rushed into print with the grave announcement that the Allies and the United States will lose or win the war in 1918. They produce figures, statistics and estimates that prove "conclusively" that it will be all over but the shouting and the teeth gnashing in 1919.

Were it not for the fact that these same experts predicted the end of the war in 1914, 1915. 1916 and 1917 by the same figures, statistics and estimates, the latest forecast might be taken seriously. As a matter of fact the American people are about fed up on experts. They distinctly recall the predictions made in 1914 that Germany would be compelled to sue for peace because of such great sacrifice, that is sure to earn lack of cotton, in 1915 because of the rubber and guncotton shortage, in 1916 because of the food shortage and in 1917 because of human attrition.

It is barely possible that Germany will be defeated in 1918, but it will not win in 1918. To sters or other dependents of men who begin with, all experts to the contrary notwithstanding, America will have but a small fraction of its resources available this year. In the second my of its allies in any branch of war serv- place, the Allies cannot be defeated as long as the British fleet is able to hold its strangling grasp at the throat of German commerce. In the third place France and Italy have several years' fight

On the other hand, the food situation in Germany is probably no worse than it has been for the past two years and the situation in Russia he service, but to all women who have may permit it to use enough reserve to continue

It is well to hope that the war will end this year. but it is also well to look facts frankly in the face and prepare for a finish fight.

In speaking of the Russian peace failure, Von Hertling said to the Reichstag: "We rely on our strong position, loyal intentions and just rights." "Just rights." as usual, being the last consideration in Berlin.

paign committee which is trying to raise $150,-000 in St. Louis this week for the benefit of Jewish soldiers in the American army and to relieve Jewish sufferers in the war zones are assured in advance of the sympathy and support of their fellow townsmen of all races and creeds. Theirs is not merely a propagandist zeal, for they themselves have already subscribed $100,000 towards a quota of $250,000 assigned to this city by a national organization which is trying to raise $10,000,000 in the United States and has raised $5,000,000 in New York.

Although the Jews have subscribed liberally to dress to the German army in the Red Cross and Y. M. C. A. funds, they are not soliciting contributions to their own campaign except among their co-religionists. It would therefore be all the more graceful for non-Jews to be as generous towards them as they have been towards non-Jewish philanthropies. It is a most worthy cause.

PERRY SURVIVOR IN JAPAN.

What nation or individual ever had such an experience as that of Japan and a certain W. H. Hardy, late of the United States navy? He was an humble member of that expedition under Commodore Matthew C. Perry which reached the Bay of Yeddo on July 7, 1853, from which the rise of the modern Japan dates. Now, after the passage of almost 65 years, he has gone back to pay a second visit to the Japanese.

Probably the United States was as much surprised as Japan to learn that a man who participated in the famous expedition to which history will attribute so many things still survives, and our interest in him increases with accounts of the details of his stay in the Mikado's domain. Because both of his age and his part in the Perry voyage, he has been made the recipient of extraordinary honors, we are told. The days are all too short to permit him to fill all the requests for lectures and all the engagements for banquets and entertainments. At a dinner given him by members of the nobility the other day, the guests became too solicitous about the strain on his health, whereupon this 82-year-old American turned a handspring just to show that he was up ere ever ready to grant our many re- to naval physical standards. closely with his was the one Lafayette paid to this country in his mature years. Lafayette's role, however, had been one of leadership in war, while the role of Mr. Hardy was only one of obscurity in a mission of peace. We shall be glad to welcome back this well-preserved, eloquent American who commands Japanese admiration equally with heels and with tongue.

A church built in Padua to celebrate the driving out of the German Hohenstauffen bandits 700 years ago was burned by Hohenzollern air raiders. The Hohen breed keeps the strain of brutality undiluted.

RUSSIA'S FINANCIAL PROBLEM.

Vital news that would show the financial conditions in Russia is evidently being censored by the Bolsheviki authorities. What, for example, is the effect upon industry, business and finances of the seizure of factories and landed estates, the forcible closing of banks and imprisonment of bank directors? How are the soldiers being paid? How much gold has the Bolsheviki Government under its control? What value has the rouble and how is that value to be protected? What is happening to stocks and bonds? How are the profits of the seized industries to be divided? Is the Government confiscating them for its own use, or is it vesting the titles in the workmen?

Monday's news was to the effect that the Council of People's Commissioners at Petrograd had ordered the "confiscation" of all the factories and other properties of the Russo-Belgium Company. because it had refused to submit to the control of its employes. All the workmen were ordered to continue the discharge of their duties, and sabotage was forbidden. The same day's news stated that the directors of the Petrograd private banks had been imprisoned in the fortress of SS. Peter

News from various parts of Russia has been to the effect that the peasant have seized landed estates and in some instances murdered the proprietors.

Does this Bolsheviki Government propose any sort of compensation? Or is it actually working on the plane of the highway robber, the burglar, and the barbarian conqueror? Is it in the business of wholesale repudiation, and at the same time expecting to make peace with and resume commercial and financial relations with the central nations, where private property and financial obligations are still respected? In what sort of money does it expect to pay German merchants for goods, with its own money made worthless by its own acts of repudiation? Does it expect to resort to mere barter, in its internal and external

GEN. LEMAN COMES BACK.

Gen. Leman, the Belgian officer, who commanded the forts at Liege in August, 1914, has been released from the German prison in which he has been confined for more than three years. To newspaper men in Switzerland he said: "I had two faithful companions with me, whom bring back-Faith and Hope."

The civilized world will long remember Gen. Leman and the men who fought under him, until the stones of the forts loosened by gunfire buried them alive. By their gallant defense they halted the drive of the German hosts for more than a week and perhaps saved France from being overrun. Leonidas at Thermopylae did no greater service for humanity than Gen. Leman and his small Belgian force at Liege.

Gen. Leman typifies the proud spirit of the Belgians. After three years of subjection and inhuman treatment he and his country are still endowed with those great ministering angels-Faith and Hope. No amount of Germa has been able to take the heart out of the people of Belgium. They fought to the death when they could have retained peace by a craven act and they will continue to fight until the violator of their peace and independence is placed where he can do no more harm.

America and all of the allied countries may well take to heart the lesson of devotion taught to the world by little Belgium. As long as the spirit that pervaded Gen. Leman and his men at Liege remains in the allied countries so long will it be impossible for ruthless might to gain a foothold

Gen. Leman has come back and Belgium is com-

HOW TO GET MAID SERVANTS.

It has come to pass in these degenerate days that the head of the household, desolated by the departure of her maid, after a tenure of three weeks, advertises another three weeks in vain and inquires among her friends, only to find them in like manner bereft and mourns the flight of yester-year, when maids came seeking places that were conferred with fitting condescension and accepted with suitable humility and gratitude.

If one hearkens to the debates at the meeting of the housewives' union it appears that the causes are as many as there are members of the union But a cause which seems to have been overlooked is the decadence of art in advertising. Nowadays when the Mrs. wants a maid she sends a two-line ad to the paper, which makes known, to be sure, the facts of her need, but sings no siren's song to the soul of the sought. Result: No girl.

In 1780 and thereabouts, it was done differently. Witness this advertisement from the Pennsylvania Packet of Sept. 23, that year:

Wanted, at a seat about half a day's journey from Philadelphia, a single woman of unsullied reputation, an affable, cheerful, active and amiable disposition; cleanly, industrious perfectly qualified to direct and manage the female concerns of country business, as raising small stock, dairying, marketing, combing, carding, spinning, knitting, pickling, preserving, etc. Such a person will be treated with respect and esteem and meet with every encouragement due to such a character

There is an advertisement that, it is safe to say, made the Mary Janes of that epoch sit up and take notice and set off to apply for the job, the emoluments of, which may have been as much as a dollar and a half a week. But consider the prestige of filling a position like that.

If the women of this 1918 will advertise like that they will get answers. Some of them will probably be unprintable, but any answers are betthere. Perhaps the visit that compares most ter than none.

WOULD YOU DENY THEM?

Goal from touchdown should be made by free drop kick. Scoring Plan Analyed.

EFENDING his view of this system Mr. McCann writes:

"The main part of the system, that of scoring by getting within a certain zone, could be worked out in this way: Whenever a team gets the ball to its opponents' 20-yard line that team scores, regardless of whether a kick brought the ball there or not. For instance, when the ball is kicked and the receiver is downed in the scoring zone the team which kicked scores. This puts a premium on a good kicker though there is compensation to the other team in that they have an opportunity to run the ball back in proportion to the length DEFENDING his view of this sys-

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The stock market developed a firm undertone today. Premier Lloyd George's speech was well received, and the results, it is believed, will be seen in the least future. Home funds and allied bonds were firm under the lead of cousols, mining the leading features. Rubber, cil and shipping the leading features. Rubber, cil and shipping the leading features in good supply and discount rates were quiet.
